Since my graduation I have done various work within the creative industry. I like to work in different fields of design, both visual communication and graphic design, product development and architecture. I find it keeps my work fresh and varied. My main interest is in sustainability and circular design projects. In 2015 I started up a small design studio in Gratangen, Equals Plus, focusing on doing both commissioned and self initiated work that in some way or another has a focus on creating ecological conscious projects.
